ref. Leadership - Basic

Introduction to critical thinking

According to The Foundation for Critical Thinking, critical thinking is “the intellectually disciplined process of actively and skillfully conceptualizing, applying, analyzing, synthesizing, and/or evaluating information gathered from, or generated by, observation, experience, reflection, reasoning, or communication, as a guide to establishing beliefs and action plans.”

Critical thinking transforms the internal audit function's purpose and work, shifting from crunching numbers to relaying impactful results and value-additive insights.

In this course, learners will analyze how The IIA's Global Internal Audit Standards establish the importance of critical thinking skills and identify critical thinking fallacies, biases, and methods to improve their critical thinking as audit professionals.

Participants

Internal auditors seeking an understanding of how critical thinking is woven throughout the audit process's key elements, including risk assessments, interviewing, testing and analysis, process documentation, and reporting.
